

JOHN W. WEEKS TO GET PLACE AROUND TABLE

Navy, War, and Treasury
Posts Are Being
Suggested.

WANTS TREASURY Tariff Schedules Are Dis- cussed at Marion Saturday.

Marion, O., Jan. 15.—When the name plates are changed on the eleven chairs about the cabinet table at the White House next March it is predicted that the name of John W. Weeks of Massachusetts will be engraved on one of them. Which department will claim him may be decided as a result of his conference today with Senator Harding.

Senator Weeks himself, according to his intimates, would prefer the treasury portfolio. Senator Harding and some of the Republican leaders are said to desire that he take over direction of the navy. A compromise may seat him in the chair of the secretary of war.

Senator Weeks' objection to the navy post, it is said, is based on the fact that he was educated at Annapolis and is the classmate and intimate friend of many of the higher officers of the navy who would be under his direction.

Congressman Joseph W. Fordney, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house discussed with the next president among other things the tariff legislation which will be considered at the special session of congress. Tariff schedules are his specialty and he is popularly believed to be able to give offhand the duties on any article between acorns and zithers. He is counted on to help frame the schedules which will make effective Senator Harding's plans for revision of the tariff upward.

Odell In Conference.

Former Governor B. B. Odell of New York held an extended conference with Senator Harding and is believed to have touched on political organization and cabinet make up.

Among other visitors today were John W. Weaver of Huntington, Ind.; Myer Bloomfield, publisher of Boston and Sidney Spitzer of Toledo. The problems and condition of the colored citizens of America were outlined to the senator by Joseph W. Johnson, of New York, secretary of the national association for the advancement of colored people.

Senator Harding, it may be stated on the highest authority, is doing far more worrying over the postmen than postmasters. He can get plenty of postmasters, as his correspondence and his visitors make plain. It is estimated conservatively that there are ten applicants for every postmaster's job.

Senator Harding, however, is determined to strengthen both the force and the morale of the postal employees and is pledged to revision of their salaries upward. He is giving deep thought, it is said, to the reorganization of the post office department and to the elimination of abuses which are alleged now to exist.

RED CROSS WORKER REPORTED DEAD IS IN MOSCOW JAIL

vised That he Was Captured in Raid.

When last seen according to State Department advices at the time, Kilpatrick had been stripped of his underclothes in zero weather and was being led away by raiders.

One proposed by Senator Nugent, Democrat of Idaho, placing duty on

That Office To Be

Dykeman, who is assistant manager of a Cleveland theatre and member of the Lorain county election board is said to be the "original Davis man" in Lorain county.

It is understood that a number of the score of assistants in the fire marshal's department will be abolished and that the work of inspecting hotels and restaurants will be transferred to the state health, or to some other state department.

NEW YORK ELECTION FRAUDS IMPLICATE 30 POLL OFFICIALS

Reveal Scandal Rivalling
That Of Primary
In 1917.

New York, Jan. 15.—Investigation of alleged election frauds in this city last November has revealed a scandal rivalling that of the primary campaign of 1917, it was said when it became known that the total number of persons indicted by the August grand jury was nearly 30.

In one instance it was charged 109 ballots cast for Governor Miller were transferred to former Gov. Smith. In another district ballots were mutilated and destroyed, while in others Socialist aspirants were alleged to have been cheated out of 150 votes.

While indictments have been returned against more than a score of election officials, including Patrick Harden, employed as a process server by the District Attorney's office, many of the men have not been arrested because they gave fictitious names and addresses.

IRISH IGNORE BRITISH ORDER FOR DISARMING

Republican Army Is Well
Supplied With Equipment.

ARMS ARE "PLANTED"

Little Gun Running Is Be- lieved Possible Through Blockade.

London, Jan. 15.—The order of the British military authorities to all Sinn Feiners in the Irish martial law zone to deliver up their arms and ammunition has been absolutely ignored.

"Not so much as a pop gun has been turned over," said a message from Dublin Castle to the Irish office today.

That the members of the Irish Republican army are well supplied with rifles, pistols, ammunition, trench helmets and even machine guns has been revealed by raids of the British soldiers and the black and tan police, but the Irish are not giving up their weapons.

Following an inquiry at the Irish office as to the amount of war supplies collected from the Irish in the martial law zone a telegram was sent to Dublin Castle requesting the information.

No Arms Received.

"Inquiry has been made to the military authorities regarding the surrender of arms in the martial law area. We are informed that not even as much as a pop gun had been handed in. It is a significant fact, however, that many arms have been found. It is suggested that many of them may have been 'planted' by the Sinn Feiners with a view to being found."

The British government is convinced that arms and ammunition are not being shipped into Ireland from the outside. There may be isolated instances of gun running, but the unofficial naval blockade around Ireland is drawn so tight that no vessel of any size could slip into an Irish port unobserved.

Among the weapons seized by the British military and policemen in raids were many old style weapons out of date patterns. Under the martial law proclamation unauthorized possession of arms in the martial law zone could be punishable with death.

HEAR RUMOR THAT CLEMENCY BOARD MAY BE CHANGED

Strong Intimation That
Davis May Cause
Shakeup.

Columbus, Jan. 15.—Strong intimation was heard at the executive chambers that summary measures might be instituted to effect a change in the personnel of the State Board of Clemency, now composed of Thomas J. Mulcahey of Henry County and Judge C. H. Kyle of Xenia. The reason advanced by Governor Davis is that these members were not in harmony with his policy of dealing with paroles and pardons and that they also were out of agreement as to the method of conducting hearings and making announcement of actions taken.

Inspection of the law shows that removal can be made, for conduct unbecoming a public official or otherwise, which is regarded as being an elastic provision. There is a requirement, however, that there should be hearing upon charges filed.

It also is possible that the General Assembly may take action to abolish the board and substitute another, which the Governor can appoint.

MOTHER AND THREE CHILDREN PERISH IN BURNING HOME

Refuses To Leave Flames
When Babies Are Found Dead.

Chardon, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Louis Green, 38, and three children, aged 1, 3, and 5, were burned to death last night, when their home went up in flames. The cause of the fire will probably never be known. Mrs. Green had been out for a few minutes and returning, found her home in flames, and her babies burned to death. Rushing out to a neighbors she cried:

"My children are burning to death."

She then rushed to the burning house, and throwing herself on the bed refused to permit herself to be removed from the burning structure.

The husband and father died two weeks ago, and Mrs. Green was employed as a domestic to keep her little family.

ALLEGED GERMAN MARK SWINDLE IS NOW BEING PROBED

Brokers Are Under Arrest In Boston On Charge.

Boston, Jan. 15.—A rigid investigation into the alleged $75,000 German mark swindle, in which hundreds of credulous investors throughout the country are said to have been robbed, has been ordered by Albert Hurwitz, Assistant Attorney-General of Massachusetts.

This alleged get-rich-quick scheme was brought to light through the arrest of three Massachusetts men associated with the firm of Rothschild-Campbell Company Ltd., foreign exchange brokers.

Investigators of the State Department already are on the trail of one group of workers who, it is charged manufactured counterfeit marks in New York and passed them around as legitimate.

The "big appeal," it is said, was made to the poorer classes, the people with a few pennies saved and a desire to make "real money."

The mark, it is added, was represented as sure to rise in value.

Options were said to have been sold at 2 cents, and buyers of the reputed options were to clean up at any time the value of the mark rose higher than the two cents.

The men arrested are Nathaniel Goodman, of Boston; Abraham Horowitz of Worcester and A. Gardner Bostedo of Quincy.

MOVE CITY FOR WEALTH BELOW

The gigantic task of moving an entire city is slowly nearing completion in Minnesota. The City of Hibbing, which had reached the dignity of 10,000 population, with substantial brick buildings and a street car line, is being moved to a new site to permit the mining of rich deposits of iron ore upon which it stood.

Hibbing, often called the "richest village on earth," stood directly upon one of the deposits of iron ore. The illustration shows the Colonial Hotel, a three-story structure, on the move to New Hibbing. The building, placed on steel tractors, is not much of a burden for the powerful steam tractor shown hauling it.

"CRAZY ABOUT IT" DECLARES WOMAN

New York, Jan. 15.—"It's all right and I'm crazy about it," Miss Anne Morgan, sister of the famous J. P. Morgan, told Tex Rickard boxing impresario, last night at Madison Square Garden as she watched lightweight champion Benny Leonard pound Richie Mitchell of Milwaukee into submission. Miss Morgan "promoted" the fight, the proceeds after the fighters were paid, going to the fund for the relief of devastated parts of France. It was estimated today that more than $70,000 will go into the relief fund.

NO CONFIRMATION OF WORD ON ATTEMPT TO MURDER LENINE

Report States Bomb Was Hurled Killing Six
Bodyguards.

London, Jan. 15.—Officials were without confirmation today of a sensational report printed in the Daily Telegraph that an attempt had been made at Moscow to assassinate Nicolai Lenine with a bomb. The Daily Telegraph story follows:

"An attempt was made to kill Lenine with a bomb on Jan. 8, while he was driving from Kremlin to the eight soviet Congress which was under way in at heater at Moscow. A bomb was thrown from the top of an unoccupied house. It missed Lenine's auto and fell in front of the car of his bodyguards, killing six of them. Three spectators also were killed. The perpetrators escaped."

PIONEER BUSINESS MAN IS KILLED BY FALL AT AGE OF 92

Eli Hull Of Newark—
Plunges Head First
Down Stairs.

Newark, O., Jan. 15.—Eli Hull, 92, pioneer business man of this city, tripped on the top step of the upper floor of his home last night and plunged head first to the floor below, dying an hour later in city hospital. He leaves a widow and one daughter, Mrs. W. W. Wehrle who with her husband, head of the Wehrle Stove Works here, are on a pleasure trip to the Philippines and Japan.

A number of years ago Hull conceived a plan whereby oil and gasoline could be extracted from bituminous coal but when his project was perfected oil was discovered in the ground in Pennsylvania and the invention was useless. He discovered coal in the Shawnee fields and commenced its development.

NATIONS HUNT BANDITS.

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 15.—The authorities of Chile and Argentine have joined forces and are co-operating in hunting down bandits operating in Santa Cruz territory, in Southern Argentina, under the provisions of the frontier police convention, signed between the two countries in 1920, according to dispatches from Punta Arena today.

JURY FAILS TO INDICT.

East Liverpool, O., Jan. 15.—The Columbus grand jury at Lisbon failed to return an indictment against Sterling Perry, East Liverpool grocer, charged with having his store open Sunday. Perry was the first man arrested in a proposed "blue law" crusade launched by David McLane, Justice of the Peace.

HARDING FACED BY HANG-OVER LAW MEASURES

Present Congress Likely
Will Leave Much Un-
finished.

PACKING BILL CERTAIN

Outside Of Appropriations Little Will Be Com- pleted.

Washington, Jan. 15.—President elect Warren G. Harding's first last and only request to the present congress—that it leave his administration a clean legislative slate on March 4—seems to be a fair way to be disregarded.

When Senator Harding paid his hurried visit to Washington after his Panama trip he impressed upon his colleagues at the capitol the need for swift action in clearing the table for a new deal in March. He did not want any "hang-overs" to embarrass the new regime when it comes into being.

But with forty legislative days of the present session left, it became increasingly apparent today that the expiring session will do little but pass the thirteen large appropriation measure, the first of which received consideration today in the senate. These measures are of the "must" variety. They must be passed if the government is to continue to function.

Will Go Over.

As for the others—and their numbers are legion—they appear certain of going over. Among them are some important measures, such as the emergency tariff measure the soldier bonus bill, Senator Calder's bill for national regulation of the coal industry, the proposed immigration restriction legislation, various measures of importance to particular industries, repeals of war legislation, various welfare measures, such as the maternity bill, and a flock of others of lesser importance.

The one measure on which definite action is certain is the long disputed bill for regulation of the packing industry. By unanimous consent the senate will vote on this on Jan. 24.

Tedious night sessions are in prospect in the closing days of Feb. unless both sides make more speed in the next four weeks than they have in the last four. Many of the pending measures are conducive extended debate and extended debate does not make speed. The house next week probably will take up the proposal to increase the membership of the house from 435 to 483, and this is certain to produce some warm political and sectional battles. Unless the leaders can choke it off it will provide enough vocal fireworks to keep the house busy for days.

FORM PRECEDENT IN CHANGING PLACE OF MINERS' MEETINGS

Will Hold Next Convention In Bellaire Next
January.

Columbus, O., Jan. 15.—In deciding to hold its next convention in the new miners $250,000 building at Bellaire, Ohio United Mine workers have established a precedent.

Ever since the miners organization was effected in Ohio, 32 years ago, the state conventions have been held in Columbus.

This departure from custom is due to efforts of eastern Ohio miners led by William Roy, Belmont county, vice president of the state organization and sub-district president.

Amending their constitution, the delegates changed the date for holding the annual convention to the third Tuesday, in January and raised the initiation fee for inexperienced miners to $25 from $10.

Resolutions were adopted opposing the state constabulary bill, now pending in the state legislature, favoring old age pensions and opposing separation of the mining department from the state industrial commission.

lined.

Bahia Honda was to have been the last stop this side of Balboa and it was expected here that barring necessity for repairs the air fleet took off today for Panama. The air fleet is to return to San Diego starting February 28.

MEMBERSHIP IN FARM BUREAU NEARS 1,000

The Farm Bureau membership continues to grow at the rate of from 25 to 100 daily, according to County Agent Prince. The total number of members in Saturday night will not be far short of 1,000.

On Monday also the clean up work will begin in earnest. Farmers who were not at home the first time or those who wanted a little time to study will be visited again.

This will give an opportunity for farmers in this section to hear Mr. Lincoln and to learn more about the comprehensive business program snapped out by the State Farm Bureau Federation.

The Stone family were in dire distress, and times were even harder than the family patronymic, and "little Johnnie was getting tired of it. Principally he suffered from a surfeit of bread and dripping. One day he rebelled openly.

"I don't want dripping," he sobbed. "I want butter."

"Be thankful for what you get," cried his mother. "Dripping will do you more good."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

With The Women of Today

The woman banker is one of the most interesting developments of the war. Do you remember those war days when behind almost all the cage windows in almost every bank there presided a young woman to take your money or cash your checks instead of the usual dapper youth? Do you remember all the stories carried telling how well the girls were doing and how efficient and capable most of them were?

That was the beginning of a great influx of women into the banking business which was one of the last to change from the old order of "a man for everything except the telephone exchange."

Now we find women in every branch of the banking business. There is even a woman's bank with a woman president and directors in Clarksville, Tenn.

To Miss Adella M. Stewart, however, goes the honor of being the first woman appointed a national bank examiner. She is now assistant chief of the examining division in the office of the comptroller of currency. Her appointment as a bank examiner was made a few days ago. She is a graduate of the Washington College of Law and a member of the District of Columbia bar.

ELECTORAL COLLEGE ROW CO-ED SEMINARY

The electoral college has become a co-ed institution. The official messengers chosen to carry the formally announced results of each state's vote to Washington are women.

Minnesota electors recently chose Mrs. Eugene Dieudonne of Janesville to represent that state's delegation.

Nebraska named Mrs. H. H. Wheeler, of Nebraska. Mrs. Anna C. Bird was appointed to fill the vacancy in the Massachusetts electoral college caused by the illness of her husband, Charles Sumner Bird.

Mrs. John L. Pyle of Huron, was the first woman to be selected by South Dakota as an elector.

Miss Dell Boyd of Reno, will carry Nevada's presidential vote to Washington.

Kentucky also chose a woman as the state's representative; and Mrs. Theodora Youmans of Waukesha is on the Wisconsin delegation.

DRIVEN FROM A FLAT

Mr. W. M. Fellers, who lived in Lima, Ohio, was compelled to move out of a flat because of his wife's ill health. The neighbors complained that they were annoyed and distressed by Mrs. Fellers' continued coughing. They believing her to have tuberculosis, asked the owner of the flat to have her move because of the danger to the other occupants.

Mrs. Fellers had taken cold which hung on and developed into serious bronchial trouble, she doctored but found no relief until she used Glando Pine. She says: "The first dose seemed to relieve me. Two bottles removed the cough entirely. I have gained in flesh and am just fine. My friends now tell me they never expected to see me out again."

To prevent a cough from developing into pneumonia, bronchitis or consumption use Glando Pine the same cough medicine Mrs. Fellers used. 3 oz. (60 cents worth) of Glando Pine mixed with any good syrup or honey will make one pint or 128 tea-spoon's full of excellent cough medicine. Every family should keep this valuable cough medicine on hand to use at the first indication of a cough or cold. May be given to very young children. They love to take it.

The chamber of commerce of Homestead, Pa., voted recently to admit women as members.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Dayton and Xenia snow plow made its initial appearance in Xenia today. It is shanty like in appearance somewhat of a diminutive battle ship. It is being taken over the line and used in making repairs. The D. S. and U. now have their surveyors out on the line between this city and Springfield and are claiming that they expect to construct a direct line between the two cities, thus parallel to the proposed Martin line. The situation is thus liable to become interesting and the developments will be closely watched by the public.

Central engine house boys are again straightened out after having affairs at headquarters disarranged for a few days. The wagons, which were broken in the accident at the Schmidt fire have been repaired and returned and the repairs to the floor of the engine house has been completed. The boys are now ready to respond to any and all alarms again.

TAKES CARE OF 5 CHILDREN

Mrs. Taylor's Sickness Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Roxbury, Mass.—"I suffered continually with backache and was often despondent, had dizzy spells and at my monthly periods it was almost impossible to keep around at my work. Since my last baby came two years ago my back has been worse and no position I could get in would relieve it, and doctor's medicine did not help me. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have found great relief since using it. My back is much better and I can sleep well. I keep house and have the care of five children so my work is very trying and I am very thankful I have found the Compound such a help. I recommend it to my friends and if you wish to use this letter I am very glad to help any woman suffering as I was until I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. MAUDE E. TAYLOR, 5 St. James Place, Roxbury, Mass.

Backache is one of the most common symptoms of a displacement or derangement of the female system. No woman should make the mistake of trying to overcome it by heroic endurance, but profit by Mrs. Taylor's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

without fear of being likened to the Darktown fire brigade by reason of the equipment which was temporarily placed in service.

BUILDING AND LOANS DO BIG BUSINESS

If buildings and loans can be taken as barometers of business, this city is by way of being in excellent condition.

Two institutions of this nature in Xenia are distributing funds equal in amount to the pay roll of two large factories, in their annual disbursements of dividends and interest according to the financial statements just issued.

The Home Building & Savings Company, in the Steel building at Main and Detroit streets, shows by its statement, disbursements in dividends and interests, of $101,645.50. The People's Building & Savings Company, on East Market street, has distributed $101,818.01 in this manner according to the recent financial statement, which shows, a total disbursement of $208,463.51 made in this city during the last year through interest and dividends of money savers.

ORATORICAL CONTEST FOR HIGH SCHOOLS OF STATE ANNOUNCED

The Oratorical Contest for High School students of the State of Ohio, prizes in which are three free scholarships at Denison University, will be repeated this year by the University in consequence of its success last year, it has been announced. High school students who presumably will be graduated this spring are eligible to compete, under the rules set forth below.

The scholarships are worth in the aggregate $300. The value of the individual prizes will be seen from the following scale:

First Prize$150 Scholarship
Second Prize$100 Scholarship
Third Prize$50 Scholarship
Instead of the scholarships, cash prizes may be chosen by the winners. If they so elect, the value of these will be as follows: First Prize $75; Second Prize $50; Third Prize $25.

The contest will be managed in the following manner:

Ten preliminary tryouts will be held during the 2nd week in April, in at least ten cities of Ohio: Cleveland, Cambridge, Dayton, Canton, Toledo, Marion, Steubenville, Greenfield, Lima, Newark.

The center for this district will be: Steele High School, Dayton. The tryout will be held April 14.

"One winner in each of these districts will be awarded a medal for excellence in oratory, and will be invited to come to Granville some time during the latter part of April, at the expense of the University, to participate in a final contest. At this final contest three winners will be chosen," said Prof. C. Henry Dickerman, of Denison, chairman of the Contest Committee, Saturday in Xenia.

"In the tryouts it is desirable that contestants enter as accredited representatives of the schools at which they are studying; to this end it is expected that these schools will hold some form of competition to pick representatives. No school may be represented by more than three contestants; and where a school sends such a team of three, or fewer, no other student from that school will be allowed to compete. In case the school sends no official contestants, a student from that school may compete independently, if he submits to the committee at Granville, at least two weeks before the tryout, a letter signed by the principal of his school, certifying his fitness," continued Professor Dickerman.

In judging, weight will be given to thought, composition and delivery, and the personality of the speaker may be taken into consideration. The aim of the judges will be to select students of superior and balanced abilities. All orations must be original.

The following general principles will govern the contest:

The oration must not exceed 8 minutes in length.

The subject should be of a sort to interest a general audience.

A rewritten copy of the oration must be handed to the judges on the night of the tryout.

Lists of contestants must reach the district committee on or before April 1.

Prizes for the local tryout will probably be held at a machine to be called by Professor Waltz. It was announced Saturday.

ICY SIDEWALKS CAUSE MANY DROPS

Temp. here is not the only thing that has suffered a sudden decline recently.

Icy sidewalks for the last couple of days give omnipresent proof of this statement. Pedestrians are slipping like ten-pins in a bowling tournament and even Fords are skidding on the curves.

The slippery walks call to mind the unusually slippery conditions of last winter, when the storekeepers completely sold out their supplies of sneakers and the home-made articles appeared on the heels of pedestrians.

ROW OVER LEBANON RULES RESULTS IN NO GAME FRIDAY

Because Lebanon High School athletic authorities refused to comply with the rules in regard to the position of the banking board, Coach Harold Confer, of the Central High School basketball team refused to let his players take the floor against the Lebanon quintet in the game scheduled at that place Friday night.

An argument that lasted for almost an hour between officials of the two teams, was eliminated, when the Lebanon authorities refused to concede to arbitration regarding the floor rules, that would be just to the visiting team, and Coach Confer withdrew his team from the floor, the team returning to this city as soon as possible.

The Lebanon High team plays in Harmon Hall where the banking boards are flush with the wall, permitting players to bank their throws off the wall as well as the banking board, into the basket. Coach Confer referred to a rule which says that when the ball strikes a wall on a floor of that sort, that it is "out of bounds," but athletic authorities at Lebanon refused to agree to a plan that would be in accord with the rules.

The Xenia team was forced to return home without expenses, but will appeal the case to the officials of the Ohio State Interscholastic Athletic Association, for settlement, and expects to secure expenses from that body, to be charged against the Lebanon school. The Lebanon authorities declared the game forfeited to their team 2-0, but the result will also be annulled.

Lebanon has played on the ill-fated floor for six years, and local athletes remembering the defeat handed them last year because of the peculiar floor rules refused to submit to the same conditions again. Manager Philip Moore attempted to secure a game for the locals to be played here Saturday night, but his efforts were unavailing.

LACK OF OFFERINGS AT STOCK MARKET

New York, Jan. 15.—The chief feature of the stock market at the opening today was the scarcity of offerings, even the leading issues. It was ten minutes after the start before a sale of Baldwin Locomotive was made and then that stock was traded in at 91 1-2, a gain 5-8. No transactions were made in Mexican Petroleum in the first 15 minutes.

Reading was prominent, advancing to above 88. General Motors was unusually active and ranged from 15 1-8 to 14 7-8.

International Paper was a strong feature, advancing 1 point to 59 5-8. Republic Steel rose 1 point to 69 7-8. Crucible Steel rose 1 1-4 to 95 1-4 and Bethlehem Steel B rose nearly 1 point to 59 1-2. American International after yielding 3-8 to 45 1-8 rose to 46. The first sale of Mexican Petroleum was made 29 minutes after the opening at 162, a gain of 1-2.

Steel common was quiet and rose fractionally to 83 1-8.

SEVEN EX-SERVICE MEN FORMER PUPILS OF O. S. & S. O. HOME

An interesting fact in connection with the death of Frank Moore, who passed away recently in Denver, Colo. is that he was one of seven brothers; Russell of this city, Harley of Jamestown, Louie and Sherman of Lima, Scott of Columbus and Bert of Ashland, all of whom are ex-service men. All of the brothers are also former pupils of the O. S. and S. O. Home of this city.

Four of the brothers Scott, Harley, Russell and Frank saw service overseas. Frank, the deceased member of the family, saw a month's service in France, at the time of the signing of the armistice, and while riding in General Pershing's parade in New York at the time Pershing returned to this country, he was thrown from his horse, suffering an injury that resulted in his death, after many months spent in Denver.

AUSTRIA, AS A NATION, DEAD—PEOPLE IN LINE TO GET THE DOLES FROM SOUP KITCHENS.

No longer bound together by the cement of an historic loyalty to the Hapsburg dynasty, split into fragments by the creation of the separate states of Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia and Hungary and by the transfer of rich territories and dense populations to Poland, Italy and Rumania, the fate that has overtaken Austria was what might have been expected. Economically dependent upon surrounding states over which it has no longer control, its whole internal organization thrown into confusion by the revolutionary changes which have resulted from the war and burdened by an appalling debt, the government of Austria has surrendered to the inevitable; and if the Vienna advisers are accurate, it proposes to turn over the administration of affairs to the Allies' reparation commission.

That the position of Austria was most desperate has been shown frequently in dispatches during the last several months. These dispatches have told in graphic terms how Vienna, once the most light-hearted capital in the world, had become a dying city, and how the one time wealthy inhabitants there now stood cold and poorly clothed awaiting the state's doles to the destitute, or in line before a relief kitchen where bowls of soup were handed out.

Taking into account our share in the Versailles treaty, is it not pertinent to ask ourselves to what extent we are guilty for the dismemberment of the greater part of Europe.

World peace would be a great, a splendid thing, but the question is how to accomplish it, and it looks very much as if we have not yet struck the right plan, for "war and rumor of war" burdens the telegraph lines from Europe to almost the exclusion of everything else.

Except as to our duty to feed the starving, we ought, as General Wood says, to "avoid internationalism as we would death."

DISABLED VETERANS HAVE SUFFERED SHAMEFUL NEGLECT AND INJUSTICE.

One of the most extraordinary features of the Wilson Administration has been the development of overlapping bureaus and departments that have grown up like mushrooms under the various war acts. Not only has the overlapping evil been enormously increased, but, despite protests and warnings, nothing has been done to check the duplication of work and the unnecessary and extravagant expense by which the ends aimed at are absolutely missed.

When it is noted that there are more than thirty-four federal health organizations carrying on some kind of work relating to the public health, a fair idea is given of the kind of thing to which this overblown bureaucracy has given rise. This is the burden of the protest by the American Legion in its vigorous appeal to the American people against the failure of the government in its handling of the disabled veterans of the war.

Congress cannot afford to ignore the plain speaking of the Legionaires and their memorial, which 3000 speakers of the Legion are to bring to the attention of the public in order "to focus the attention of the nation on the existing state of things." The Legion is chiefly concerned over the fact that the three agencies now engaged in looking after the disabled veterans have brought in about that "they have suffered shameful neglect and injustice." This scandalous situation is, in their opinion, due to the lack of any proper connection between the bureaus handling the rehabilitation problem. The Legion's proposal that the work must be coordinated and given a common control sounds so reasonable that it is impossible to believe that Congress or the new administration will continue to be indifferent to the facts. The Legion's appeal bears every evidence of being the whole truth, revealing a condition discreditable to the government and to the country that has allowed such a shocking state of things to develop.

NOW THAT THIS FUND IS APPROPRIATED, WHY NOT DIVERT IT TO AID OUR NEGLECTED, DISABLED WORLD WAR VETERANS?

his audience one night by playing "Brutus" dressed in the Roman toga of Brutus' period. At that time, plays of any date were given in the modern costume of the day, and Brutus therefore had worn knee breeches and a braided coat.

Talma took part in the Revolution; he was later the friend of the king, during the Royalist reaction; he was a friend also of Napoleon, who carried him with him to act for him when war took them to foreign countries. He outlived all his friends, though he was only 63 when he died. He had a great influence on theatrical things particularly in the way of costuming and scenery.

LAY FINAL PLANS FOR BANQUET OF AUTO CLUB ON TUESDAY

Final plans are being made for the annual banquet of the Greene County Automobile Club, which will be held at the Chamber of Commerce next Thursday, January 20, having been postponed from last Tuesday.

It is now assured that there will be a speaker present from Columbus and also one from Cleveland, representing the Ohio State and the American Automobile associations and Dr. A. C. Messenger, temporary president of the local club, is also making an attempt to secure C. F. Kettering, president of the Montgomery County club to speak.

The election of permanent officers will be held at this meeting and each member is urged to secure three new members and bring them to the banquet. Already a number of the charter members have secured their quota of new members or more than their quota, and it is believed that 100 or more will be present at the annual banquet.

SECOND SUBSCRIPTION OF STOCK IN COUNTRY CLUB CALLED FOR

The second subscription of stock in the Xenia Country Club has been called for.

The first block was called for October 15 and the second call went out Saturday, which is according to the agreement, three months from the time of the first call.

Due to the fact that the house committee has experienced difficulty in getting the kind of electrical fixtures desired for the club room, no definite date for the housewarming party and formal opening has as yet been set. The date will be fixed at a time when the club is accessible, according to Secretary L. C. Tingley, who says that although several car loads of cinders have been placed on the lane leading to the club house, there are parts that still need repairing, and as favorable weather as possible will be picked for the opening, for this reason.

The club house has been painted on the outside, a gray color, but will probably be given another coat of a lighter shade before spring. The house committee will meet within a few days to make plans for the formal opening.

HOW HE ENDED KIDNEY TROUBLE

"I had a severe attack of kidney trouble and for three weeks could not get out of doors and scarcely out of bed," writes C. E. Brewer, Village Springs, Ala. "Could not bend over at all without the most excruciating pains. I purchased a bottle of Foley Kidney Pills. Was relieved after first few doses and continued their use until completely cured. I consider Foley Kidney Pills the best kidney remedy in the world. No recurrence of my trouble." Sayre & Hemphill.

"THE DREAM CHEATER."

BEAUTY CHATS

SHAPELY SHOULDERS

A woman's shoulders can be so beautiful with a little effort on her part that it seems a shame that any woman should go through life without having beautiful or at least shapely shoulders.

The shoulders are particularly important this year because our evening gowns are so very, very filmy on top that it is impossible to disguise any defects. As a matter of fact, in order to wear the very newest evening dresses one must be beautiful all over, for we are leaving very little to the imagination this season. I have seen some gowns—but I have only space today to give a few suggestions for developing the shoulders, chest and arms.

I do not know which are uglier, shoulders so fat that rolls of flesh hang about them, or shoulders so thin that the skin fairly clings to the bones. Whatever may be the trouble, exercise is a general corrective. If you are too fat, you can always reduce; and if you are too thin, you can do everything possible to build yourself up. I need not repeat the oft given advice about swimming as a means of developing chest, shoulders and arms.

If you live anywhere near water and can get out in a row boat, you will do a great deal in the way of developing your shoulders and chest by rowing for even ten minutes every day. If you cannot, you can do a rowing exercise at home by holding arms straight out in front of you and clenching the hands and tensing the muscles as much as possible; then pull the hand backwards towards the chest as though you were pulling against a great weight. This is particularly good for developing the little hollows which come between the throat and shoulder blade. Deep breathing exercises are also of enormous benefit.

Reduction Menus.

Today I want to give a few suggestions for meals which the stout woman may eat without any fear that she will be gaining undue weight by her eating. A little later I will give some recipes for dishes which will not add to one's weight yet which are most delicious to eat.

Six Luncheons.

Minced turkey, Fruit salad, Gluten bread, Stewed prunes, Steamed oysters, Cold chicken, Apple and celery salad, Pineapple.

Stuffed eggs, Broiled lamb chops, Stewed celery, Baked apples, Broiled fish, Stewed carrots, Romaine salad, Sliced oranges.

Consomme, Egg and vegetable salad, Diet bread, Stewed fruit, Poached eggs, Cold meat, Fruit Salad, Gelatin. Some readers may think that these luncheons are a little elaborate. For most of us a luncheon is a light meal, often composed of left-overs from the last evening's dinner fixed up in some dainty fashion. As a matter of fact these luncheon menus would make perfectly good dinner menus if they were built out slightly. The following dinner suggestions do not make use of any fattening foods:

Six Dinners.

Raw oysters, Roast turkey, Brussels sprouts, salad.

Clear soup, Broiled fish, Cauliflower and salad.

Fruit, Clam Cocktail, Roast lamb, Stewed celery, carrots, sliced pineapple.

Fruit gelatin, Mussels, Roast duck, Broiled mushrooms, Cold slaw, and steamed apples.

Clear soup, Broiled sweetbreads, Salsific, Pineapple salad, and apple sauce.

Fish Filet of beef, Artichokes, Lettuce salad and stewed plums.

These menus may not appeal to my readers but perhaps from them they may get ideas for other combinations which are more convenient to prepare. As a little meat as possible should be eaten, although lamb and beef are not very fattening, and poultry and game are usually included in all reduction menus.

Rippling Rhymes

THE KNOWING ONE.

If I had John H. Milton's harp, my brow in wreaths arrayed, I'd sing an ode about the sharp who truly knows his trade, be it the boning of a carp, or filing of a spade. Nine workmen tried to fix my bus, which had been hitting wrong; for days I saw them with it fuss, the while their bill grew long, and I could only weep and cuss, when scheduled for a song. They held an inquest on my cart, that was of little use; they took the motor all apart, and pried the crankshaft loose, to find out why things wouldn't start when they applied the juice. And when their greasy toil was done, the boat was just the same; the whatyoucallit wouldn't run, the thingumbob was lame; and it had taken all my mon to pay them for their game. They might have made good auctioneers, or coroners, or clerks; they might have won out herding steers, or preaching in the kirks; but they were lemons, it appears, among a motor's works. And then came workman Number Ten, when those nine jays were gone; yea, one of nature's noblemen came skipping up the lawn; he came to earn an honest yen, and did, so help me John. He was a man of pep and sense, a workman skilled was he, and in an hour he banished thence the grief that spoiled my glee, and my old car would jump a fence or climb a banyan tree.

FRANCOIS TALMA

January 15, 1923

Few actors are great enough to make themselves a lasting place in history. But Francois Talma was such a figure—one of the greatest actors of the old French stage, a man who lived during one of the most important periods in French history and who played a big part as well as on the stage.

Francois Talma was born in Paris in 1763. His father was a dentist who lived and practiced in London as well as Paris. Francois, educated in both countries, grew up as a dentist and made that his vocation for some years. Then his desire to go on the stage was too much for him and he dropped his work and took anything the theatres offered, to get on "the boards."

His first position was at the Comedie Francaise. He was 24. He had a small part, yet somehow the public liked him. He soon grew immensely popular. He was one of the first to introduce realism in scenery and costumes—he nearly paralyzed

MEAT INJURIOUS TO THE KIDNEYS

Take a tablespoonful of Salts if Back hurts or Bladder bothers —Meat forms uric acid.

We are a nation of meat eaters and our blood is filled with uric acid, says a well-known authority, who warns us to be constantly on guard against kidney trouble.

The kidneys do their utmost to free the blood of this irritating acid, but become weak from the overwork; they get sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and thus the waste is retained in the blood to poison the entire system.

When your kidneys ache and feel like lumps of lead, and you have stinging pains in the back or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or the bladder is irritable, obliging you to seek relief during the night; when you have severe headaches, nervous and dizzy spells, sleeplessness, acid stomach or rheumatism in bad weather, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine so it is no longer a source of irritation, thus ending urinary and bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, and nobody can make a mistake by taking a little occasionally to keep the kidneys clean and active.

DISHES FOR INVALIDS.

Oatmeal Water—Boil two quarts water and cool it; add one cup of oatmeal (not rolled oats) and let stand in a warm place (about 80 degrees F.) one and one-half hours, then strain and cool.

Oatmeal Gruel—Add one-half a cup coarse oatmeal and a little salt to three cups of boiling water; cook in a double boiler three hours. If rolled oats be substituted for oatmeal, a little shorter time will be sufficient. Put through a strainer; add sufficient milk or cream to make it of the desired consistency and heat and strain again.

Cornmeal Gruel—Mix two tablespoons cornmeal with one tablespoon flour and a little salt; add enough water to make a thin mixture and stir into one and one-half pints of boiling water. Let it boil slowly one hour if directly over the flame and dilute with milk; or it may be made with milk and cooked in a double boiler for three-quarters hour.

Arrowroot Gruel—Use one teaspoon arrowroot to each half cup of boiling water. Mix with cold water to make a thin paste, adding a bit of salt; then add boiling water and cook ten minutes. Cream or milk may be added if desired.

Beef Tea—Secure one pound of steak from top of round; wipe, cut in small pieces, removing fat, and soak fifteen minutes in one pint of cold water. Put meat and water in a glass fruit jar and cover jar. Place on a trivet in a kettle of cold water, allow water to heat slowly, then cook for three hours. Strain, season and heat again before serving.

Chicken or Mutton Broth—Clean and dry it or wipe mutton with a damp cloth. Cut in pieces, place in kettle with the bones, and cover with cold water. Let it heat gradually to boiling point; skim and add salt and pepper. Cook slowly over a low flame until meat is tender; then strain and remove fat. Heat again, add washed rice and cook until the rice is soft.

There should be about three pints of stock from one chicken and to that amount of stock add two tablespoons rice. A little of the meat may be served with the mutton broth.

Corn Bread—One-half pound of cornmeal, ten ounces flour, two eggs, four ounces lard, four ounces sugar, one-half ounce salt, one ounce baking powder, enough milk to make a stiff batter. Mix as you would cake.

FOR THE COOKIE JAR

Vermont Gingerbread—One cup sugar, two tablespoons molasses, four tablespoons melted butter, one egg, one cup chopped raisins, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon salt, one dessertspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon mixed spices, one teaspoon soda, two cups flour.

Mix sugar, molasses, butter, salt and spices. Add egg well beaten and sour milk. Sift soda with flour and then sift into mixture. Add raisins and beat two minutes. Bake over a medium flame forty minutes.

IT'S GOOD FOR CHILDREN

Mrs. C. E. Schwab, 1007 14th St., Canton, Ohio, writes: "We use Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs and find it one of the best remedies on the market, especially good for children's coughs, as it does not contain any drug that is harmful." Serious sickness often follows lingering colds. Hard coughing racks a child's body and disturbs strength-giving sleep, and the poisons weaken the system so that disease cannot be ward off. Take Foley's in time. Sayre & Hemphill.

The Woman He Married

BY JANE PHELPS

CHAPTER 65

While waiting for Dick to come home I recalled what Mrs. Stowell had said about telling her what Mr. Burns told Dick about the markets. I puzzled over it, then concluded that she wanted a little extra money for something that she didn't wish Mr. Stowell to know about—a very natural deduction on my part considering the way I had managed Dick. I told him of Mr. Burns' call showed him the violets but something (I couldn't explain the feeling) kept me from mentioning what Mildred Stowell had said. I would get Dick to tell me what he was doing—in fact, I knew pretty well because the confirmations came to the house—most of them. Dick had opened an account in another office, a joint account with another man, and I knew nothing of what they did, save as Dick wanted to tell me. The other man had the papers.

"I'll have the violets to wear to-night," I said gleefully.

"You are pretty enough without them," Dick said, kissing me. "But if you like them I am glad he brought them to you. I hope you didn't forget to remind him he was coming in some evening to play cards. He has been mighty nice to me."

"Did he tell you anything today?"

"No—I shall just keep what we have for a little longer."

The next day Mildred came to take Junior and me for a ride. She brought Junior a toy, as she almost always did, and me a dainty embroidered handkerchief.

"You have seen Mr. Burns?" she asked.

Yes, he called yesterday. He brought me these violets. I had taken great care of them after I got home the night before, and they looked almost as fresh as when he gave them to me. "Wasn't it nice of him?" "Very!" Then, "Did he talk business to you at all?"

"No—we just talked nonsense."

"Has he told Dick what to do lately?" She seemed to take it for granted I would answer her questions, and made me feel in some strange way that I must.

"No. That is, nothing that I know about. You remember I told you Dick didn't talk business very freely with me."

"Then Dick isn't doing anything at all now?" She persisted, to my amazement.

Just holding what he has had for some time.

"What's that?" eagerly.

"A little I. C. C."

"Oh, I heard that was good! Are you sure he has it?"

She changed the subject, and chatted with more than her usual animation. When she dropped me at home she said:

"We must have luncheon together soon, day after tomorrow, at Delmonico's. Will that suit you?"

"Beautifully!" I answered, delighted with the invitation.

I loved to lunch with Mildred. She always went to bath room places, where I could see the styles, and also show my pretty clothes. Now when I told Dick of going with her he didn't say, as he formerly did, that it would make me discontented and things like that. He was more likely to say:

"That's right, Nan, have a good time while you are young! When you get old you'll have the rheumatism and can't!" A favorite remark of his when he was in good humor.

Up to this time I had done my own work. We had bought the lot at Harmon, making a small payment down, and agreeing to pay the rest at $100 a year. But wife Dick was making money—not great amounts, but a few hundred occasionally which, with his salary, should have allowed us to do many things had I not been so extravagant—the house he had built on paper seemed no nearer than it had been months before the fire.

"You must have a maid, Nan. We can afford it now, and I hate to have you do all the work—hate to have Burns and other people know you do it. Get a young girl to help; then she can take care of Junior when we are out."

I rebelled at first. I did not dislike caring for my home, and I wanted so many things that I hated to pay the big wages even incompetent girls were getting. But finally I gave in—after Mr. Burns had spoken of my doing my own work. And Nora, a good-natured Irish girl, was installed in my kitchen.

Tomorrow—A Delmonico Lunch.

JOHN W. WEEKS
TO GET PLACE
AROUND TABLE

Navy, War, and Treasury
Posts Are Being

WANTS TREASURY
Tariff Schedules Are Discussed at Marion Saturday.

Marion, O., Jan. 15.—When the name plates are changed on the eleven chairs about the cabinet table at the White House next March it is predicted that the name of John W. Weeks of Massachusetts will be engraved on one of them. Which department will claim him may be decided as a result of his conference today with Senator Harding.

Senator Weeks himself, according to his intimates, Senator Harding and some of the Republican leaders are said to desire that he take over direction of the navy. A compromise may seat him in the chair of the secretary of war.

Senator Weeks' objection to the navy post, it is said, is based on the fact that he was educated at Annapolis and is the classmate and intimate friend of many of the higher officers of the navy who would be under his direction.

Congressman Joseph W. Fordney, chairman of the ways and means committee of the house discussed with the next president among other things the tariff legislation which will be considered at the special session of congress. Tariff schedules are his specialty and he is popularly believed to be able to give offhand the duties on any article between acorns and zithers. He is counted on to help frame the schedules which will make effective Senator Harding's plans for revision of the tariff upward.

Odell In Conference.
Former Governor B. B. Odell of New York held an extended conference with Senator Harding and is believed to have touched on political organization and cabinet make up.

Among other visitors today were John W. Weaver of Huntington, Ind.; Myer Bloomfield, publisher of Boston and Sidney Spitzer of Toledo.

The problems and condition of the colored citizens of America were outlined to the senator by Joseph W. Johnson, of New York, secretary of the national association for the advancement of colored people.

Senator Harding, it may be stated on the highest authority, is doing far more worrying over the postmen than postmasters. He can get plenty of postmasters, as his correspondence and his visitors make plain. It is estimated conservatively that there are ten applicants for every postmaster's job.

Senator Harding, however, is determined to strengthen both the force and the morale of the postal employees and is pledged to revision of their salaries upward. He is giving deep thought, it is said, to the reorganization of the post office department and to the elimination of abuses which are alleged now to exist.

EMERGENCY TARIFF BILL IS FAVORABLY REPORTED

Measure Weighted Down With Amendments Before
Passed By Committee To Be Presented To Senate Monday.

Washington, Jan. 15.—The emergency tariff bill was ordered favorably reported to the senate today by the senate finance committee. Senator Penrose of Pennsylvania will present the bill to the senate on Monday. Several additional amendments were tacked on the bill in the final hours of consideration.

The bill was weighted down with amendments before a majority of the committee agreed to report it. Amendments adopted included: One proposed by Senator Nugent, Democrat of Idaho, placing duty on fresh and frozen meats of 25 percent ad valorem.

One proposed by Senator McLean, Republican of Connecticut, increasing the former Payne-Aldrich duties on tobacco from $1.85 to $2.85 a pound for wrapper and filler and from $2.50 to $3.50 a pound on stems.

One proposed by Senator Laffollette, Republican of Wisconsin, increased the old Payne-Aldrich duties on butter and cheese from six to eight cents a pound.

The bill was also amended so as to provide for a duty of seven cents a pound on cotton having a staple of one and one-eighths instead of one and three eighths a s originally provided. This was proposed by Senator Ransdell, Democrat, of Louisiana.

Another amendment adopted was proposed by Senator Jones, Democrat of New Mexico, imposing a duty of four cents a pound on apples and cherries.

The committee accepted an amendment sponsored by Senator Pomerene of Ohio, to permit cattle and sheep for breeding purposes to enter free of duty.

Another amendment offered by Senator Fernald, Republican of Maine, providing that the duty of two cents a pound on rice shall not apply to rice used for canning purposes, such as canned soups, was also adopted.

The committee rejected the codification, land reclamation, soldiers bonus and other bills, offered as amendments by Senator Harrison, Democrat of Mississippi. It is also rejected the Jones immigration bill, proposed as an amendment by Senator Thomas, Democrat of Colorado.

Dykeman, who is assistant manager of a Cleveland theatre and member of the Lorain county election board is said to be the "original Davis man" in Lorain county. It is understood that a number of the score of assistants in the fire marshal's department will be abolished and that the work of inspecting hotels and restaurants will be transferred to the state health, or to some other state department.

Reveal Scandal Rivalling
That Of Primary
In 1917.

New York, Jan. 15.—Investigation of alleged election frauds in this city last November has revealed a scandal rivalling that of the primary campaign of 1917, it was said when it became known that the total number of persons indicted by the August grand jury was nearly 30.

In one instance it was charged 109 ballots cast for Governor Miller were transferred to former Gov. Smith. In another district ballots were mutilated and destroyed, while in others Socialist aspirants were alleged to have been cheated out of 150 votes.

While indictments have been returned against more than a score of election officials, including Patrick Harden, employed as a process server by the District Attorney's office, many of the men have not been arrested because they gave fictitious names and addresses.

IRISH IGNORE
BRITISH ORDER
FOR DISARMING

Republican Army Is Well
Supplied With Equipment.

ARMS ARE "PLANTED"
Little Gun Running Is Believed Possible Through Blockade.

London, Jan. 15.—The order of the British military authorities to all Sinn Feiners in the Irish martial law zone to deliver up their arms and ammunition has been absolutely ignored.

"Not so much as a pop gun has been turned over," said a message from Dublin Castle to the Irish office today.

That the members of the Irish Republican army are well supplied with rifles, pistols, ammunition, trench helmets and even machine guns has been revealed by raids of the British soldiers and the black and tan police, but the Irish are not giving up their weapons.

Following an inquiry at the Irish office as to the amount of war supplies collected from the Irish in the martial law zone a telegram was sent to Dublin Castle requesting the information.

Dublin Castle replied: "No Arms Received."

"Inquiry has been made to the military authorities regarding the surrender of arms in the martial law area. We are informed that not even as much as a pop gun has been handed in. It is a significant fact, however, that many arms have been found. It is suggested that many of them may have been 'planted' by the Sinn Feiners with a view to being found."

The British government is convinced that arms and ammunition are not being shipped into Ireland from the outside. There may be isolated instances of gun running, but the unofficial naval blockade around Ireland is drawn so tight that no vessel of any size could slip into an Irish port unobserved.

Among the weapons seized by the British military and policemen in raids were many old style weapons of out of date patterns. Under the martial law proclamation unauthorized possession of arms in the martial law zone could be punishable with death.

London, Jan. 15.—A band of men believed by the authorities to have been Sinn Feiners or Sinn Fein sympathizers opened fire on the police at Wandsworth today. One arrest was made. Wandsworth is a suburb of London.

Dublin, Jan. 15.—A band of armed men opened fire at Armagh today wounding a civilian and a constable. No arrests were made.

MOTHER AND THREE CHILDREN PERISH
IN BURNING HOME

Refuses To Leave Flames
When Babies Are Found Dead.

Chardon, Jan. 15.—Mrs. Louis Green, 38, and three children, aged 1, 3, and 5, were burned to death last night, when their home went up in flames. The cause of the fire will probably never be known. Mrs. Green had been out for a few minutes and returning, found her home in flames, and her babies burned to death. Rushing out to a neighbors she cried:

"My children are burning to death."

She then rushed to the burning house, and throwing herself on the bed refused to permit herself to be removed from this burning structure.

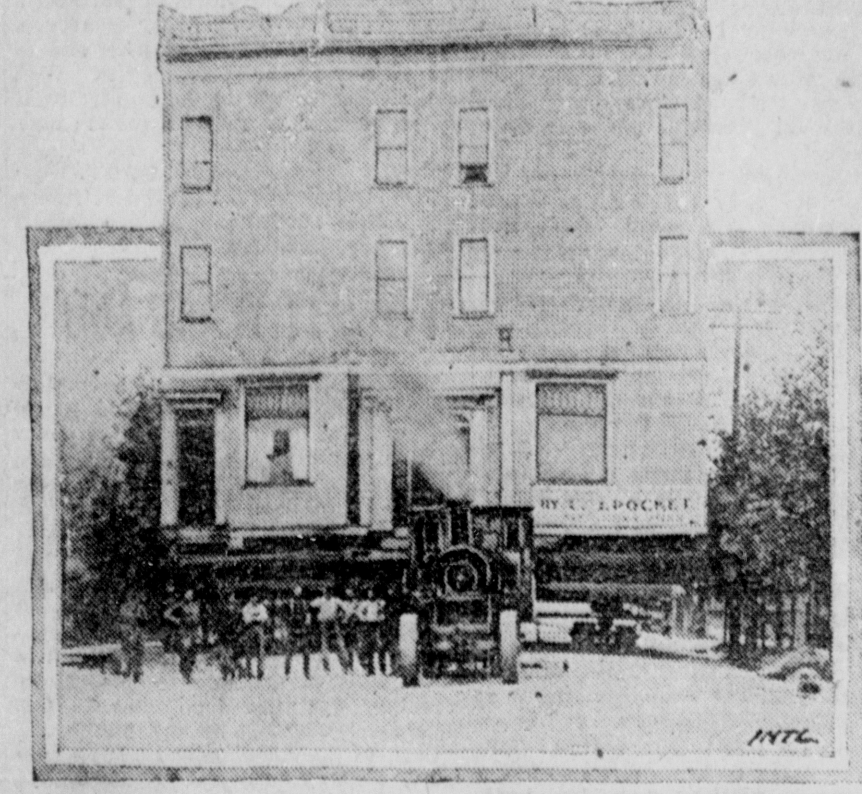

The husband and father died two weeks ago, and Mrs. Green was employed as a domestic to keep her little family.

BUILDING EMPLOYEES
CALL FOR STRIKE

Boston, Jan. 15.—A strike of the 30,000 members of the building trades employees of greater Boston today was called for next Wednesday by the United Building Trades Council. The strike is in protest against a ten per cent reduction in wages announced by the building trades employers association.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Blindness caused by wood alcohol was the ground for a verdict of $30,000 damages returned in Circuit court today in favor of Sam Greenberg. The award which was said to be the first of its kind in Chicago Courts, was against the saloon partnership of Cohen & Aikin.

MOVE CITY FOR WEALTH BELOW

The gigantic task of moving an entire city is slowly nearing completion in Minnesota. The City of Hibbing, which had reached the dignity of 10,000 population, with substantial brick buildings and a street car line, is being moved to a new site to permit the mining of rich deposits of iron ore upon which it stood.

Hibbing, often called the "richest village on earth," stood directly upon one of the deposits of iron ore. The illustration shows the Colonial Hotel, a three-story structure, on the move to New Hibbing. The building, placed on steel tractors, is not much of a burden for the powerful steam tractor shown hauling it.

"CRAZY ABOUT IT"
DECLARES WOMAN

New York, Jan. 15.—"It's all right and I'm crazy about it," Miss Anne Morgan, sister of the famous J. P. Morgan, told Tex Rickard boxing impresario, last night at Madison Square Garden as she watched lightweight champion Benny Leonard pound Richie Mitchell of Milwaukee into submission. Miss Morgan "promoted" the fight, the proceeds after the fighters were paid, going to the fund for the relief of devastated parts of France. It was estimated today that more than $70,000 will go into the relief fund.

A bomb was thrown from the top of an unoccupied house. It missed Lenine's auto and fell in front of the car of his bodyguards, killing six of them. Three spectators also were killed. The perpetrators escaped."

PIONEER BUSINESS MAN IS KILLED BY
FALL AT AGE OF 92

Eli Hull Of Newark—
Plunges Head First
Down Stairs.

Newark, O., Jan. 15.—Eli Hull, 92, pioneer business man of this city, tripped on the top step of the upper floor of his home last night and plunged head first to the floor below, dying an hour later in city hospital. He leaves a widow and one daughter, Mrs. W. W. Wehrle who with her husband, head of the Wehrle Stove Works here, are on a pleasure trip to the Philippines and Japan.

A number of years ago Hull conceived a plan whereby oil and gasoline could be extracted from bituminous coal but when his project was perfected oil was discovered in the ground in Pennsylvania and the invention was useless. He discovered coal in the Shawnee fields and commenced its development.

NATIONS HUNT BANDITS.

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 15.—The authorities of Chile and Argentine have joined forces and are co-operating in hunting down bandits operating in Santa Cruz territory, in Southern Argentina, under the provisions of the frontier police convention, signed between the two countries in 1920, according to dispatches from Punta Arena today.

JURY FAILS TO INDICT.

East Liverpool, O., Jan. 15.—The Columbus grand jury at Lisbon failed to return an indictment against Sterling Perry, East Liverpool grocer, charged with having his store open Sunday. Perry was the first man arrested in a proposed "blue law" crusade launched by David McLane, Justice of the Peace.

HARDING FACED
BY HANG-OVER
LAW MEASURES

Present Congress Likely
Will Leave Much Un-
finished.

PACKING BILL CERTAIN

Outside Of Appropriations
Little Will Be Completed.

Washington, Jan. 15.—President elect Warren G. Harding's first last and only request to the present congress—that it leave his administration a clean legislative slate on March 4—seems a fair way to be disregarded.

When Senator Harding paid his hurried visit to Washington after his Panama trip he impressed upon his colleagues at the capitol the need for swift action in clearing the table for a new deal in March. He did not want any "hang overs" to embarrass the new regime when it comes into being.

But with forty legislative days of the present session left, it became increasingly apparent today that the expiring session will do little but pass the thirteen large appropriation measure, the first of which received consideration today in the senate. These measures are of the "must" variety. They must be passed if the government it to continue to function.

Will Go Over.
As for the others—they appear numbers are legion—they appear certain of going over. Among them are some important measures, such as the emergency tariff measure the soldier bonus bill, Senator Calder's bill for national regulation of the coal industry, the proposed immigration restriction legislation, various measures of importance to particular industries, repeals of war legislation, various welfare measures, such as the maternity bill, and a flock of others of lesser importance.

The one measure on which definite action is certain is the long disputed bill for regulation of the packing industry. By unanimous consent the senate will vote on this on Jan. 24.

Today's night sessions are in prospect in the closing days of Feb. unless both sides make more speed in the next four weeks than they have in the last four. Many of the pending measures are conducive to debate and extended debate does not make speed. The house next week probably will take up the proposal to increase the membership of the house from 435 to 483, and this is certain to produce some warm political and sectional battles. Unless the leaders can choke it off it will provide enough vocal fireworks to keep the house busy for days.

Based on Census
The reapportionment measure is based on the last census. The house census committee has reported a bill raising the membership quota to about 218,000. The committee is divided eight for six against the measure, and the vote seems fairly representative of the attitude of the whole house in the matter.

Rep. George H. Tinkham, Republican, of Boston, supported by a number of other Republicans from New England and northern states, is prepared to oppose the bill on the ground that the south is not entitled to its present representation because of inability of negroes to vote in some southern states. Tinkham's position is that representation had been based on qualified voting strength and not on population. Republican leaders of the house are reluctant to support any reapportionment measures which will increase the size of the house. They contend that the house already is too unwieldy for efficient action.

FORM PRECEDENT
IN CHANGING PLACE OF MINERS' MEETINGS

Will Hold Next Convention In Bellaire Next
January.

Columbus, O., Jan. 15.—In deciding to hold its next convention in the new miners $250,000 building at Bellaire, Ohio United Mine Workers have established a precedent.

Ever since the miners organization was effected in Ohio, 32 years ago, the state conventions have been held in Columbus.

This departure from custom is due to efforts of eastern Ohio miners led by William Roy, Belmont county, vice president of the state organization and sub-district president.

Amending their constitution, the delegates changed the date for holding the annual convention to the third Tuesday, instead of the second Tuesday, in January and raised the initiation fee for inexperienced miners, to $25 from $10.

Resolutions were adopted opposing the state constabulary bill, now pending in the state legislature, favoring old age pensions and opposing separation of the mining department from the state industrial commission.

This will give an opportunity for farmers in this section to hear Mr. Lincoln and to learn more about the comprehensive business program mapped out by the State Farm Bureau Federation.

The Stone family were in dire distress, and times were even harder than the family patronymic, and "the Johnnie" suffered from a surfeit of bread and dripping. One day he rebelled openly. "I don't want dripping," he sobbed. "I want butter."

"Be thankful for what you get," cried his mother. "Dripping will do you more good."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

With The Women of Today

The woman banker is one of the most interesting developments of the war. Do you remember those war days when behind almost all the cage windows in almost every bank there presided a young woman to take your money or cash your checks instead of the usual dapper youth? Do you remember all the stories carried telling how well the girls were doing and how efficient and capable most of them were?

That was the beginning of a great influx of women into the banking business which was one of the last to change from the old order of "a man for everything except the telephone exchange."

Now we find women in every branch of the banking business. There is even a woman's bank with a woman president and directors in Clarksville, Tenn.

To Miss Adella M. Stewart, however, goes the honor of being the first woman appointed a national bank examiner. She is now assistant chief of the examining division in the office of the comptroller of currency. Her appointment as a bank examiner was made a few days ago. She is a graduate of the Washington College of Law and a member of the District of Columbia bar.

ELECTORAL COLLEGE NOW CO-ED SEMINARY

The electoral college has become a co-ed institution. The official messengers chosen to carry the formally announced results of each state's vote to Washington are women.

Minnesota electors recently chose Mrs. Eugene Dieudonne of Janesville to represent that state's delegation.

Nebraska named Mrs. H. H. Wheeler, of Nebraska. Mrs. Anna C. Bird was appointed to fill the vacancy in the Massachusetts electoral college caused by the illness of her husband, Charles Sumner Bird.

Mrs. John L. Pyle of Huron, was the first woman to be selected by South Dakota as an elector.

Miss Dell Boyd of Reno, will carry Nevada's presidential vote to Washington.

Kentucky also chose a woman as the state's representative; and Mrs. Theodora Youmans of Waukesha is on the Wisconsin delegation.

DRIVEN FROM A FLAT

Mr. W. M. Fellers, who lived in Lima, Ohio, was compelled to move out of a flat because of his wife's ill health. The neighbors complained that they were annoyed and distressed by Mrs. Fellers' continued coughing. They believed her to have tuberculosis, asked the owner of the flat to have her move because of the danger to the other occupants.

Mrs. Fellers had taken cold which hung on and developed into serious bronchial trouble, she doctored but found no relief until she used Glando Pine. She says: "The first dose seemed to relieve me. Two bottles removed the cough entirely. I have gained in flesh and am just fine. My friends now tell me they never expected to see me out again."

To prevent a cough from developing into pneumonia, bronchitis or consumption use Glando Pine the same cough medicine Mrs. Fellers used. 3 oz. (60 cents worth) of Glando Pine mixed with any good syrup or honey will make one pint or 128 tea-spoonfuls of excellent cough medicine. Every family should keep this valuable cough medicine on hand to use at the first indication of a cough or cold. May be given to very young children. They love to take it.

The members are active, auxiliary and junior, and the respective qualifications are business women of the city, and secretaries, stenographers, clerks and cashiers under twenty-one. Miss Elizabeth Sibley is president; Miss Julia Doran, secretary; Miss Gladys Carr, treasurer. The organization developed out of the recent financial crash in Wall Street. Many women lost all their money and many others a great share.

WOMEN IN BUSINESS BODY.

The chamber of commerce of Homestead, Pa., voted recently to admit women as members.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

The Dayton and Xenia snow plow made its initial appearance in Xenia today. It is shanty like in appearance somewhat of a diminutive battle ship. It is being taken over the line and used in making repairs. The D. S. and U. now have their surveyors out on the line between this city and Springfield and are claiming that they expect to construct a direct line between the two cities, thus parallel to the proposed Martin line. The situation is thus liable to become interesting and the developments will be closely watched by the public.

Central engine house boys are again straightened out after having affairs at headquarters disarranged for a few days. The wagons, which were broken in the accident at the Schmidt fire have been repaired and returned and the repairs to the floor of the engine house has been completed. The boys are now ready to respond to any and all alarms again.

TAKES CARE OF 5 CHILDREN

Mrs. Taylor's Sickness Ended by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Roxbury, Mass.—"I suffered continually with backache and was often despondent, had dizzy spells and at my monthly periods it was almost impossible to keep around at my work. Since my last baby came two years ago my back has been worse and no position I could get in would relieve it, and doctor's medicine did not help me. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have found great relief since using it. My back is much better and I can sleep well. I keep house and have the care of five children so my work is very trying and I am very thankful I have found the Compound such a help. I recommend it to my friends and if you wish to use this letter I am very glad to help any woman suffering as I was until I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. MAUDE E. TAYLOR, 5 St. James Place, Roxbury, Mass.

Backache is one of the most common symptoms of a displacement or derangement of the female system. No woman should make the mistake of trying to overcome it by heroic endurance, but profit by Mrs. Taylor's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

BUILDING AND LOANS DO BIG BUSINESS

If buildings and loans can be taken as barometers of business, this city is by way of being in excellent condition.

Two institutions of this nature in Xenia are distributing funds equal in amount to the pay roll of two large factories, in their annual disbursements of dividends and interest according to the financial statements just issued.

The Home Building & Savings Company, in the Steel building at Main and Detroit streets, shows by its statement, disbursements in dividends and interests, of $101,045.50. The People's Building & Savings Company, on East Market street, has distributed $101,818.01 in this manner according to the recent financial statement, which shows, a total disbursement of $203,463.51 made in this city during the last year through interest and dividends of money savers.

ORATORICAL CONTEST FOR HIGH SCHOOLS OF STATE ANNOUNCED

The Oratorical Contest for High School students of the State of Ohio, prizes in which are three free scholarships at Denison University, will be repeated this year by the University in consequence of its success last year, it has been announced. High school students who presumably will be graduated this spring are eligible to compete, under the rules set forth below.

The scholarships are worth in the aggregate $300. The value of the individual prizes will be seen from the following scale:

First Prize$150 Scholarship
Second Prize$100 Scholarship
Third Prize$50 Scholarship

Instead of the scholarships, cash prizes may be chosen by the winners. If they so elect, the value of these will be as follows: First Prize $75; Second Prize $50; Third Prize $25.

The contest will be managed in the following manner:

Ten preliminary tryouts will be held during the 2nd week in April, in at least ten cities of Ohio: Cleveland, Cambridge, Dayton, Canton, Toledo, Marion, Steubenville, Greenfield, Lima, Newark.

The center for this district will be: Steele High School, Dayton. The tryout will be held April 14.

"One winner in each of these districts will be awarded a medal for excellence in oratory, and will be invited to come to Granville some time during the latter part of April, at the expense of the University, to participate in a final contest. At this final contest three winners will be chosen," said Prof. C. Henry Dickerman, of Denison, chairman of the Contest Committee, Saturday in Xenia.

In the tryouts it is desirable that contestants enter as accredited representatives of the schools at which they are studying; to this end it is expected that these schools will hold some form of competition to pick representatives. No school may be represented by more than three contestants; and where a school sends such a team of three, or fewer, no other student from that school will be allowed to compete. In case the school sends no official contestants, a student from that school may compete independently, if he submits to the committee at Granville, at least two weeks before the tryout, a letter signed by the principal of his school, certifying his fitness," continued Professor Dickerman.

In judging, weight will be given to thought, composition and delivery, and the personality of the speaker may be taken into consideration. The aim of the judges will be to select students of superior and balanced abilities. All orations must be original.

The following general principles will govern the contest:

The oration must not exceed 8 minutes in length.

The subject should be of a sort to interest a general audience.

A rewritten copy of the oration must be handed to the judges on the night of the tryout.

Lists of contestants must reach the district committee on or before April 1.

Plans for the local tryout will probably be held at a meeting to be called by Professor Waltz, it was announced Saturday.

ICY SIDEWALKS CAUSE MANY DROPS

Slippery walks are not the only thing that has suffered a sudden decline recently.

Icy sidewalks for the last couple of days gave omnipresent proof of this statement. Pedestrians are flopping like ten-pins in a bowling tournament and even Fords are skidding on the curves.

The slippery walks call to mind the unusually slippery conditions of last winter, when the storekeepers completely sold out their supplies of sneakers and the home-made articles appeared on the heels of pedestrians.

ROW OVER LEBANON RULES RESULTS IN NO GAME FRIDAY

Because Lebanon High School athletic authorities refused to comply with the rules in regard to the position of the banking board, Coach Harold Confer, of the Central High School basketball team refused to let his players take the floor against the Lebanon quintet in the game scheduled at that place Friday night.

An argument that lasted for almost an hour between officials of the two teams, was culminated, when the Lebanon authorities refused to concede to arbitration regarding the floor rules, that would be just to the visiting team, and Coach Confer withdrew his team from the floor, the team returning to this city as soon as possible.

The Lebanon High team plays in Harmon Hall where the banking boards are flush with the wall, permitting players to bank their throws off the wall as well as the banking board, into the basket. Coach Confer referred to a rule which says that when the ball strikes the wall on a floor of that sort, that it is "out of bounds." But athletic authorities at Lebanon refused to agree to a plan that would be in accord with the rules.

The Xenia team was forced to return home without expenses, but will appeal the case to the officials of the Ohio State Interscholastic Athletic Association, for settlement, and expects to secure expenses from that body, to be charged against the Lebanon school. The Lebanon authorities declared the game forfeited to their team 2-0, but the result will also be annulled.

Lebanon has played on the illegal floor for six years, and local athletes remembering the defeat handed them last year because of the peculiar floor rules, refused to submit to the same conditions again. Manager Philip Moore attempted to secure a game for the locals to be played here Saturday night, but his efforts were unavailing.

LACK OF OFFERINGS AT STOCK MARKET

New York, Jan. 15.—The chief feature of the stock market at the opening today was the scarcity of offerings, even the leading issues. It was ten minutes after the start before a sale of Baldwin Locomotive was made and then that stock was traded in at 91 1-2, a gain 5-8. No transactions were made in Mexican Petroleum in the first 15 minutes.

Reading was prominent, advancing to above 88. General Motors was unusually active and ranged from 15 1-8 to 14 7-8.

International Paper was a strong feature, advancing 1 point to 59 5-8.

Republic Steel rose 1 point to 69 7-8. Crucible Steel rose 1 1-4 to 95 1-4 and Bethlehem Steel B rose nearly 1 point to 59 1-2.

American International after yielding 3-8 to 45 1-8 rose to 46. The first sale of Mexican Petroleum was made 29 minutes after the opening at 162, a gain of 1-2.

Steel common was quiet and rose fractionally to 83 1-8.

SEVEN EX-SERVICE MEN FORMER PUPILS OF O. S. & S. O. HOME

An interesting fact in connection with the death of Frank Moore, who passed away recently in Denver, Colo., is that he was one of seven brothers; Russell, of this city, Harley of Jamestown, Louie and Sherman of Lima, Scott of Columbus and Bert of Ashland, all of whom are ex-service men. All of the brothers are also former pupils of the O. S. and S. O. Home of this city.

Four of the brothers Scott, Harley, Russell and Frank saw service overseas. Frank, the deceased member of the family, saw a month's service in France, at the time of the signing of the armistice, and while riding in General Pershing's parade in New York at the time Pershing returned to this country, he was thrown from his horse, suffering an injury that resulted in his death, after many months spent in Denver.

AUSTRIA, AS A NATION, DEAD—PEOPLE IN LINE TO GET THE DOLES FROM SOUP KITCHENS.

No longer bound together by the cement of an historic loyalty to the Hasburg dynasty, split into fragments by the creation of the separate states of Czechoslovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Hungary and by the transfer of rich territories and dense populations to Poland, Italy and Rumania, the fate that has overtaken Austria was what might have been expected. Economically dependent upon surrounding states over which it has no longer control, its whole internal organization thrown into confusion by the revolutionary changes which have resulted from the war and burdened by an appalling debt, the government of Austria has surrendered to the inevitable; and if the Vienna advisers are accurate, it proposes to turn over the administration of affairs to the Allies' reparation commission.

That the position of Austria was most desparate has been shown frequently in dispatches during the last several months. These dispatches have told in graphic terms how Vienna, once the most light-hearted capital in the world, had become a dying city, and how the one time wealthy inhabitants there now stood cold and poorly clothed awaiting the state's doles to the destitute, or in line before a relief kitchen where bowls of soup were handed out.

Taking into account our share in the Versailles treaty, is it not pertinent to ask ourselves to what extent we are guilty for the dismembrment of the greater part of Europe.

World peace would be a great, a splendid thing, but the question is how to accomplish it, and it looks very much as if we have not yet struck the right plan, for "war and rumor of war" burdens the telegraph lines from Europe to almost the exclusion of everything else.

Except as to our duty to feed the starving, we ought, as General Wood says, to "avoid internationalism as we would death."

DISABLED VETERANS HAVE SUFFERED SHAMEFUL NEGLECT AND INJUSTICE.

One of the most extraordinary features of the Wilson Administration has been the development of overlapping bureaus and departments that have grown up like mushrooms under the various war acts. Not only has the overlapping evil been enormously increased, but, despite protests and warnings, nothing has been done to check the duplication of work and the unnecessary and extravagant expense by which the ends aimed at are absolutely missed.

When it is noted that there are more than thirty-four federal health organizations carrying on some kind of work relating to the public health, a fair idea is given of the kind of thing to which this overblown bureaucracy has given rise. This is the burden of the protest by the American Legion in its vigorous appeal to the American people against the failure of the government in its handling of the disabled veterans of the war.

Congress cannot afford to ignore the plain speaking of the Legionaires and their memorial, which 3000 speakers of the Legion are to bring to the attention of the public in order "to focus the attention of the nation on the existing state of things." The Legion is chiefly concerned over the fact that the three agencies now engaged in looking after the disabled veterans have brought in about that "they have suffered shameful neglect and injustice." This scandalous situation is, in their opinion, due to the lack of any proper connection between the bureaus handling the rehabilitation problem. The Legion's proposal that the work must be co-ordinated and given a common control sounds so reasonable that it is impossible to believe that Congress or the new administration will continue to be indifferent to the facts. The Legion's appeal bears every evidence of being the whole truth, revealing a condition discreditable to the government and to the country that has allowed such a shocking state of things to develop.

Rippling Rhymes

by Walt Mason

THE KNOWING ONE.

If I had John H. Milton's harp, my brow in wreaths arrayed, I'd sing an ode about the sharp who truly knows his trade, be it the boning of a carp, or filing of a spade. Nine workmen tried to fix my bus, which had been hitting wrong; for days I saw them with it fuss, the while their bill grew long, and I could only weep and cuss, when scheduled for a song. They held an inquest on my cart, that was of little use; they took the motor all apart, and pried the crankshaft loose, to find out why things wouldn't start when they applied the juice. And when their greasy toil was done, the boat was just the same; the whatyoucallit wouldn't run, the thingumbob was lame; and it had taken all my mon to pay them for their game. They might have made good auctioneers, or coroners, or clerks; they might have won out herding steers, or preaching in the kirks; but they were lemons, it appears, among a motor's works. And then came workman Number Ten, when those nine jays were gone; yea, one of nature's noblemen came skipping up the lawn; he came to earn an honest yen, and did, so help me John. He was a man of pep and sense, a workman skilled was he, and in an hour he banished thence the grief that spoiled my glee, and my old car would jump a fence or climb a banyan tree.

FRANCOIS TALMA

January 15, 1923

Few actors are great enough to make themselves a lasting place in history. But Francois Talma was such a figure—one of the greatest actors of the old French stage, a man who lived during one of the most important periods in French history and who played a big part as well as on the stage.

Francois Talma was born in Paris in 1763. His father was a dentist who lived and practiced in London as well as Paris. Francois, educated in both countries, grew up as a dentist and made that his vocation for some years. Then his desire to go on the stage was too much for him and he dropped his work and took anything the theatres offered, to get on "the boards."

His first position was at the Comedie Francaise. He was 24. He had a small part, yet somehow the public like him. He soon grew immensely popular. He was one of the first to introduce realism in scenery and costumes—he nearly paralyzed his audience one night by playing "Brutus" dressed in the Roman toga of Brutus' period. At that time, plays of any date were given in the modern costume of the day, and Brutus therefore had worn knee breeches and a braided coat.

Talma took part in the Revolution; he was later the friend of the king, during the Royalist reaction; he was a friend also of Napoleon, who carried him with him to act for him when war took them to foreign countries. He outlived all his friends, though he was only 63 when he died. He had a great influence on theatrical things particularly in the way of costuming and scenery.

LAY FINAL PLANS FOR BANQUET OF AUTO CLUB ON TUESDAY

Final plans are being made for the annual banquet of the Greene County Automobile Club, which will be held at the Chamber of Commerce next Thursday, January 20, having been postponed from last Tuesday.

It is now assured that there will be a speaker present from Columbus and also one from Cleveland, representing the Ohio State and the American Automobile associations and Dr. A. C. Messenger, temporary president of the local club, is also making an attempt to secure C. F. Kettering, president of the Montgomery County club to speak.

The election of permanent officers will be held at this meeting and each member is urged to secure three new members and bring them to the banquet. Already a number of the charter members have secured their quota of new members or more than their quota, and it is believed that 100 or more will be present at the annual banquet.

SECOND SUBSCRIPTION OF STOCK IN COUNTRY CLUB CALLED FOR

The second subscription of stock in the Xenia Country Club has been called for.

The first block was called for October 15 and the second call went out Saturday, which is according to the agreement, three months from the time of the first call.

Due to the fact that the house committee has experienced difficulty in getting the kind of electrical fixtures desired for the club room, no definite date for the housewarming party and formal opening has as yet been set. The date will be fixed at a time when the club is accessible, according to Secretary L. C. Tingley, who says that although several car loads of cinders have been placed on the lane leading to the club house, there are parts that still need repairing, and as favorable weather as possible will be picked for the opening, for this reason.

The club house has been painted on the outside, a gray color, but will probably be given another coat of a lighter shade before spring. The house committee will meet within a few days to make plans for the formal opening.

SHAPELY SHOULDERS

A woman's shoulders can be so beautiful with a little effort on her part that it seems a shame that any woman should go through life without having beautiful or at least shapely shoulders.

The shoulders are particularly important this year because our evening gowns are so very, very filmy on top that it is impossible to disguise any defects. As a matter of fact, in order to wear the very newest evening dresses one must be beautiful all over, for we are leaving very little to the imagination this season. I have seen some gowns—but I have only space today to give a few suggestions for developing the shoulders, chest and arms.

I do not know which are ugliest shoulders so fat that rolls of flesh hang about them, or shoulders so thin that the skin fairly clings to the bones. Whatever may be the trouble, exercise is a general corrective. If you are too fat, you can always reduce; and if you are too thin, you can do everything possible to build yourself up. I need not repeat the oft given advice about swimming as a means of developing chest, shoulders and arms.

If you live anywhere near water and can get out in a row boat, you will do a great deal in the way of developing your shoulders and chest by rowing for even ten minutes every day. If you cannot, you can do a rowing exercise at home by holding arms straight out in front of you and clenching the hands and tensing the muscles as much as possible; then pull the hand backwards towards the chest as though you were pulling against a great weight. This is particularly good for developing the little hollows which come between the throat and shoulder blade. Deep breathing exercises are also of enormous benefit.

Reduction Menus.

Today I want to give a few suggestions for meals which the stout woman may eat without any fear that she will be gaining undue weight by her eating. A little later I will give some recipes for dishes which will not add to one's weight yet which are most delicious to eat.

Six Luncheons.

Mixed turkey, Fruit salad, Gluten bread, Stewed prunes, Steamed oysters, Cold chicken, Apple and celery salad, Pineapple.

Stuffed eggs, Broiled lamb chops, Stewed celery, Baked apples, Broiled fish, Stewed carrots, Romaine salad, Sliced oranges.

Consomme, Egg and vegetable salad, Diet bread, Stewed fruit, Poached eggs, Cold meat, Fruit Salad, Gelatin.

Some readers may think that these luncheons are a little elaborate. For most of us a luncheon is a light meal, often composed of left-overs from the last evening's dinner fixed up in some dainty fashion. As a matter of fact these luncheon menus would make perfectly good dinner menus if they were built out slightly. The following dinner suggestions do not make use of any fattening foods:

Six Dinners.

Raw oysters, Roast turkey, Brussels sprouts, salad.

Clear soup, Broiled fish, Cauliflower and Salad.

Fruit, Clam Cocktail, Roast lamb, Stewed celery, carrots, sliced pineapple.

Fruit gelatin, Mussels, Roast duck, Broiled mushrooms Cold slaw, and steamed apples.

Clear soup, Broiled sweetbreads, Salsific, Pineapple salad, and apple sauce.

Fish Filet of beef, Artichokes, Lettuce salad and stewed plums.

These menus may not appeal to my readers but perhaps from them they may get ideas for other combinations which are more convenient to prepare. As a little meat as possible should be eaten, although lamb and beef are not very fattening, and poultry and game are usually included in all reduction menus.

DISHES FOR INVALIDS.

Oatmeal Water—Boil two quarts water and cool it; add one cup of oatmeal (not rolled oats) and let stand in a warm place (about 80 degrees F.) one and one-half hours, then strain and cool.

Oatmeal Gruel—Add one-half a cup coarse oatmeal and a little salt to three cups of boiling water; cook in a double boiler three hours. If rolled oats be substituted for oatmeal, a little shorter time will be sufficient. Put through a strainer; add sufficient milk or cream to make it of the desired consistency and heat and strain again.

Cornmeal Gruel—Mix two tablespoons cornmeal with one tablespoon flour and a little salt; add enough water to make a thin mixture and stir into one and one-half pints of boiling water. Let it boil slowly one hour if directly over the flame and dilute with milk; or it may be made with milk and cooked in a double boiler for three-quarters hour.

Arrowroot Gruel—Use one teaspoon arrowroot to each half cup of boiling water. Mix with cold water to make a thin paste, adding a bit of salt; then add boiling water and cook ten minutes. Cream or milk may be added if desired.

Beef Tea—Secure one pound of steak from top of round; wipe, cut in small pieces, removing fat, and soak fifteen minutes in one pint of cold water. Put meat and water in a glass fruit jar and cover jar. Place on a trivet in a kettle of cold water, allow water to heat slowly, then cook for three hours. Strain, season and heat again before serving.

Chicken or Mutton Broth—Clean and dry it or wipe mutton with a damp cloth. Cut in pieces, place in kettle with the bones, and cover with cold water. Let it heat gradually to boiling point; skim and add salt and pepper. Cook slowly over a low flame until meat is tender, then strain and remove fat. Heat again, add washed rice and cook until the rice is soft.

There should be about three pints of stock from one chicken and to that amount of stock add two tablespoons rice. A little of the meat may be served with the mutton broth.

Corn Bread—One-half pound of cornmeal, ten ounces flour, two eggs, four ounces lard, four ounces sugar, one-half ounce salt, one ounce baking powder, enough milk to make a stiff batter. Mix as you would cake.

FOR THE COOKIE JAR

Vermont Gingerbread—One cup sugar, two tablespoons molasses, four tablespoons melted butter, one egg, one cup chopped raisins, one cup sour milk, one teaspoon salt, one dessertspoon cinnamon, one teaspoon mixed spices, one teaspoon soda, two cups flour.

Mix sugar, molasses, butter, salt and spices. Add egg well beaten and sour milk. Sift soda with flour and then sift into mixture. Add raisins and beat two minutes. Bake over a medium flame forty minutes.

IT'S GOOD FOR CHILDREN

Miss C. E. Schwab, 1007 14th St., Canton, Ohio, writes: "We use Foley's Honey and Tar for coughs and find it one of the best remedies on the market, especially good for children's coughs, as it does not contain any drug that is harmful." Serious sickness often follows lingering colds. Hard coughing racks a child's body and disturbs strength-giving sleep, and the poisons weaken the system so that disease cannot be warded off. Take Foley's in time. Sayre & Hemphill.

The Woman He Married

CHAPTER 65

While waiting for Dick to come home I recalled what Mrs. Stowell had said about telling her what Mr. Burns told Dick about the markets. I puzzled over it, then concluded that she wanted a little extra money for something that she didn't wish Mr. Stowell to know about—a very natural deduction on my part considering the way I had managed Dick. I told him of Mr. Burns' call showed him the violets but something (I couldn't explain the feeling) kept me from mentioning what Mildred Stowell had said. I would get Dick to tell me what he was doing—in fact, I knew pretty well because the confirmations came to the house—most of them. Dick had opened an account in another office, a joint account with another man, and I knew nothing of what they did, save as Dick wanted to tell me. The other man had the papers.

"I'll have the violets to wear to-night!" I said gleefully.

"You are pretty enough without them," Dick said, kissing me. "But if you like them I am glad he brought them to you. I hope you didn't forget to remind him he was coming in some evening to play cards. He has been mighty nice to me."

"Did he tell you anything today?"

"No—I shall just keep what we have for a little longer."

The next day Mildred came to take Junior and me for a ride. She brought Junior a toy, as she almost always did, and me a dainty embroidered handkerchief.

"You have seen Mr. Burns?" she asked.

Yes, he called yesterday. He brought me these violets. I had taken great care of them after I got home the night before, and they looked almost as fresh as when he gave them to me. "Wasn't it nice of him?" "Very!" Then, "Did he talk business to you at all?"

"No—we just talked nonsense."

"Has he told Dick what to do lately?" She seemed to take it for granted I would answer her questions, and made me feel in some strange way that I must.

"No. That is, nothing that I know about. You remember I told you Dick didn't talk business very freely with me."

"Then Dick isn't doing anything at all now?" She persisted, to my amazement.

Just holding what he has had for some time."

"What's that?" eagerly.

"A little I. C. C."

"Oh, I heard that was good! Are you sure he has it?"

She changed the subject, and chatted with more than her usual animation. When she dropped me at home she said:

"We must have luncheon together soon, day after tomorrow, at Delmonico's. Will that suit you?"

"Beautifully!" I answered, delighted with the invitation.

I loved to lunch with Mildred. She always went to such nice places, where I could see the styles, and also show my pretty clothes.

Now when I told Dick of going with her he didn't say, as he formerly did, that it would make me discontented and things like that. He was more likely to say:

"That's right, Nan, have a good time while you are young! When you get old you'll have the rheumatism and can't!" A favorite remark of his when he was in good humor.

Up to this time I had done my own work. We had bought the lot at Harmon, making a small payment down, and agreeing to pay the rest at stated times. But while Dick was making money—not great amounts, but a few hundred occasionally which, with his salary, should have allowed us to do many things had I not been so extravagant—the house he had built on paper seemed no nearer than it had been months before the fire.

"You must have a maid, Nan. We can afford it now, and I hate to have you do all the work—hate to have Burns' and other people know you do it. Get a young girl to help; then she can take care of Junior when we are out."

I rebelled at first. I did not dislike caring for my home, and I wanted so many things that I hated to pay the big wages even incompetent girls were getting. But finally I gave in—after Mr. Burns had spoken of my doing my own work. And Nora, a good-natured Irish girl, was installed in my kitchen.

Tomorrow—A Delmonico Lunch.
